Housing Counseling Disclosure

Crawford-Sebastian Community Development Council, Inc. is a non-profit HUD approved housing counseling agency. You have chosen to receive pre-purchase & credit review counseling from our agency. These counseling services are at no charge to you. We recommend different mortgage options or programs to you as a result of this counseling: however, YOU are free to choose your lender, lending products, home and down payment assistance program if you qualify regardless of the recommendation made by your counselor.

While C-SCDC does offer several programs such as down payment assistance, homes that we have for sale and partnerships with lenders for special loan products, you are at no obligation to use any of those additional services. Some of our down payment assistance programs do require administrative or counseling fees that are paid at closing. These fees are paid out of grant funds given to you at closing and are only charged if you close on your home. HUD may look at your file when C-SCDC has their annual review by HUD.

Fee for Services—Homebuyer Fees

The homebuyer education class is free except in the following cases:

- ❖ The in-person class is free upfront and only charged if you purchase a home AND receive down payment or closing cost assistance from the following agencies: FHLB of Dallas, FHLB of Topeka, Arkansas Development Finance Authority loan or ADDI forgivable loan. In the case of the access of any of the down payment assistance mentioned above, the housing counseling fee is $500. That $500 is paid for with the down payment assistance you receive.
For Example: You receive a $5000 down payment assistance forgivable or repayable loan, a $500 fee is charged on the settlement statement for housing counseling. Your net benefit to be paid towards other closing costs and down payment is $4500.
- ❖ $100 per person for online homebuyer education

Fees for Service: Home Rehabilitation Fees

CSCDC may charge up to 15% developer fee for homeowner rehabilitation services. 15% of the amount of the repair assistance provided through one of the many forgivable loan or grant options at CSCDC, which include ADFA reconstruction, AHP with FHLB of Dallas, SNAP with FHLB of Dallas, IDA funding, and Housing Preservation Grants.

What the FHA Does for Buyers... and What We Don't Do

What we do: FHA helps people become homeowners by insuring mortgages for lenders. This allows lenders to offer mortgages to first-time buyers and others who may not qualify for conventional loans. Because the FHA insures the loan for the lender, the buyer pays only a very low down-payment.

What we don't do: FHA does not guarantee the value or condition of your potential new home. If you find problems with your new home after closing, we can not give or lend you money for repairs, and we can not buy the home back from you.

That's why it's so important for you, the buyer, to get an independent home inspection. Ask a qualified home inspector to inspect your potential new home and give you the information you need to make a wise decision.

Appraisals and Home Inspections are Different

As part of our job insuring the loan, we require that the lender conduct an FHA appraisal. An appraisal is different from a home inspection. Appraisals are for lenders; home inspections are for buyers. The lender does an appraisal for three reasons:

- to estimate the value of a house
- to make sure that the house meets FHA minimum property standards
- to make sure that the house is marketable

Appraisals are not home inspections.

Why a Buyer Needs a Home Inspection

A home inspection gives the buyer more detailed information than an appraisal--information you need to make a wise decision. In a home inspection, a qualified inspector takes an in-depth, unbiased look at your potential new home to:

- evaluate the physical condition: structure, construction, and mechanical systems
- identify items that need to be repaired or replaced
- estimate the remaining useful life of the major systems, equipment, structure, and finishes

What Goes into a Home Inspection

A home inspection gives the buyer an impartial, physical evaluation of the overall condition of the home and items that need to be repaired or replaced. The inspection gives a detailed report on the condition of the structural components, exterior, roofing, plumbing, electrical, heating, insulation and ventilation, air conditioning, and interiors.

Be an Informed Buyer

It is your responsibility to be an informed buyer. Be sure that what you buy is satisfactory in every respect. You have the right to carefully examine your potential new home with a qualified home inspector. You may arrange to do so before signing your contract, or may do so after signing the contract as long as your contract states that the sale of the home depends on the inspection.

I understand the importance of getting an independent home inspection. I have thought about this before I signed a contract with the seller for a home.

Ten Important Questions to Ask Your Home Inspector

1. What does your inspection cover?

The inspector should ensure that their inspection and inspection report will meet all applicable requirements in your state if applicable and will comply with a well-recognized standard of practice and code of ethics. You should be able to request and see a copy of these items ahead of time and ask any questions you may have. If there are any areas you want to make sure are inspected, be sure to identify them upfront.

2. How long have you been practicing in the home inspection profession and how many inspections have you completed?

The inspector should be able to provide his or her history in the profession and perhaps even a few names as referrals. Newer inspectors can be very qualified, and many work with a partner or have access to more experienced inspectors to assist them in the inspection.

3. Are you specifically experienced in residential inspection?

Related experience in construction or engineering is helpful, but is no substitute for training and experience in the unique discipline of home inspection. If the inspection is for a commercial property, then this should be asked about as well.

4. Do you offer to do repairs or improvements based on the inspection?

Some inspector associations and state regulations allow the inspector to perform repair work on problems uncovered in the inspection. Other associations and regulations strictly forbid this as a conflict of interest.

5. How long will the inspection take?

The average on-site inspection time for a single inspector is two to three hours for a typical single-family house; anything significantly less may not be enough time to perform a thorough inspection. Additional inspectors may be brought in for very large properties and buildings.

6. How much will it cost?

Costs vary dramatically, depending on the region, size and age of the house, scope of services and other factors. A typical range might be $300-$500, but consider the value of the home inspection in terms of the investment being made. Cost does not necessarily reflect quality. HUD Does not regulate home inspection fees.

7. What type of inspection report do you provide and how long will it take to receive the report?

Ask to see samples and determine whether or not you can understand the inspector's reporting style and if the time parameters fulfill your needs. Most inspectors provide their full report within 24 hours of the inspection.

8. Will I be able to attend the inspection?

A program of Crawford-Sebastian Community Development Council, Inc. Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer

This is a valuable educational opportunity, and an inspector's refusal to allow this should raise a red flag. Never pass up this opportunity to see your prospective home through the eyes of an expert.

9. Do you maintain membership in a professional home inspector association?

There are many state and national associations for home inspectors. Request to see their membership ID, and perform whatever due diligence you deem appropriate.

10. Do you participate in continuing education programs to keep your expertise up to date?

One can never know it all, and the inspector's commitment to continuing education is a good measure of his or her professionalism and service to the consumer. This is especially important in cases where the home is much older or includes unique elements requiring additional or updated training.
